THE CALLER-HERALD DAILY MARKET PAGE

Stocks and Bonds

New York.—Further nothing distinctive, based on the foreign situation, attended the opening dealings on the exchanges yesterday. The principal feature of movements were Southern Pacific, Great Northern and Missouri. Northern and Canadian Pacific. Cycles were strong, however. Reading was off a point.

Early movements were more off and price rose steadily. Reading crossed 177 and highest Valley and Union. Cycles, after were unchanged.

Some movement on yesterday's market discontinued after its early rise, was apparently attributed to the price rise of oil by yesterday's crop report, which affected all quotations. This favorable factor was offset, however, by increased buying for Reading. The action did strengthen before closing, despite the increasing movements of oil which opened at $7.30 per barrel.

A very strong crowd of oilists gathered on the September 10th position, which averaged 300 barrels.

The market closed steady.

Reconstruction seems more vigorous, heading out some of the earlier rise.
